THE JEW AND THE PRESENT WORLD'S WAR

Israel Can Only be Restored by Accepting the Salvation of Jesus Christ.
REV. ROHOLD
President of Jewish Christian Alliance Spoke in First Church
Last Evening.

A large congregation in First Methodist Church last evening heard Rev.
Rohold give an instructive and entertaining address on "The Jew and the War." Rev. Rohold is pastor of the Christian Synagogue of Toronto and president of the Jewish Christian Alliance of America. He is also a well-known writer on Jewish subjects, his latest work being "The Jew and the War," all the profits from which go to the Serbian relief fund. Rev. W. G.
Martin, associate pastor of First Church, read the story of Jacob's return with the angels, before the sermon last evening, and Rev. R. Rohold began his address with a prayer.

He described how Jacob, having grown strong in numbers and wealth, in fear of his brother Esau, stooped to the low cunning of the Jew and was left alone. This, he said, is the Jew of today--rich and strong, yet Jewish, and as such, he is the enemy of the world. He is the enemy of the world, he is the enemy of the world, he is the enemy of the world.

Music AND Drama

"Damaged Goods," Eugene Brice's latest dramatic endeavor, presented by the amateur's co-workers, is to be the attraction at the Grand Theatre and the University of the Arts. The play is a study of the human mind, and the story of a woman who has been through a long and painful experience, and who is now a "damaged good." MILITARY NIGHT

Rev. C. J. Loney Spoke On Conquest of Self.

On Sunday night at Stanley Avenue Baptist Church the pastor, Rev. Clifford J. Loney, preached an eloquent and forceful sermon to a crowded and attentive audience. It was military night, and the subject was "Conquest of Self." The speaker maintained that self-conquest is harder and more important than military conquest. A large military band was in attendance, under the able leadership of Bandmaster Burton, and rendered efficient service, and a large men's choir led the singing.

GOOD ROADS

International Convention at Montreal an Assured Success.

Montreal, Feb. 14.—An indication of the wide appeal made by the forthcoming Third Canadian and International Good Roads Congress at Montreal, will be seen in the fact that over five hundred farmers, representative of the different agricultural organizations in the Province of Quebec alone, will attend the congress, which is held in Scherzer Park from March 6th to 10th inclusive. In addition there will be a large delegation of business men, and a number of associations in the other provinces of the Dominion, and thus it is assured that the congress will be one of the largest and most important of the kind held in Canada.

PERFECTION AT LAST

The new aluminum alloy player-piano made by The Old Firm of Hamilton, Ontario, is a really remarkable instrument—a perfect player-piano at last. The player piano has been a puzzle to the public for many years. It has been a puzzle to the public for many years. It has been a puzzle to the public for many years.

PROHIBITION IS WORSE THAN

THE HISTORY OF PROHIBITION IS VERY INTERESTING, AND ONE OF THE MOST INTERESTING THINGS ABOUT IT IS THE FACT THAT SO MANY STATES OF THE UNION HAVE AT ONE TIME OR OTHER HAD PROHIBITION, TRIED IT, AND GIVEN IT UP AS WORSE THAN USELESS.

Fosters Corruption and Contempt of Law

It would be impossible, of course, to trace here the history of all these fruitless attempts to curtail the liberty of a free people. Suffice it to say that, after a longer or shorter experience, the people of these respective States became convinced of their utter futility. Especially interesting, however, is the history of these attempts in Massachusetts and Maine. Massachusetts, for example, from Colonial times had been struggling with the liquor problem, and on her old statute books are to be found license laws of various kinds and degrees of stringency. About the year 1850, however, Prohibition sentiment was sweeping the State, and therefore in 1852 a prohibitory law was passed. This was repealed in 1854, and re-enacted by the famous "Know Nothing" Legislature of 1855, and so for the next twenty years Massachusetts had Prohibition; but it was such a farce, and drunkenness, corruption and contempt of law had increased to such a terrible extent, that, under the leadership of the foremost men of the State, such as Oliver Wendell Holmes, Prof. Louis Agassiz, ex-governor Andrew, and John Quincy Adams, so-called Prohibition was swept away, and the license law of 1875, which with various amendments is now the law of the State, was introduced.

"Prohibition" in Maine, a Joke!

As to Maine, the efforts of the early Temperance men were directed entirely to moral suasion and individual abstinence; but after a time the vigorous principle crept in that men could be kept sober by legislation, and under the leadership of Neal Dow and others prohibitory legislation was enacted. Even a short time after its introduction, however, it was seen that this failed absolutely, in its object, it was acknowledged by its sponsors again and again; but, unfortunately, politicians saw in it a fruitful field for them to exploit, and during the last half century Prohibition has been exploited in the Pine Tree State.

Just now there seems to be passing over Canada and many parts of the neighboring Republic a wave of prohibitory fanaticism, and we are told that the country will soon be "dry" and the liquor problem solved forever. Such being the case, therefore, it is well to remember that similar waves have risen and subsided, not once, but many times; that, as we have shown, very many of the most important States in the Union tried the experiment years ago, found it a failure, and repealed it; and further, as we have shown, the most progressive, populous, and intelligent of all. For example, as to population, six "dry" States—Idaho, Arizona, Oregon, Colorado, North Dakota, and Oklahoma—have, altogether, fewer inhabitants by over half a million than has the one "wet" city of New York, while as to wealth, possibly one street in the city of New York could buy all these "dry" States combined.

THE CALL OF THE DINNER BELL

(Monday, Feb. 14.)
Today I opened a letter from a little girl of thirteen, which read: "Dear Grandpa, I am writing you very well as I see you many times on the screen. I am writing to ask you if moving picture actresses are paid the same kind of food as other people eat. Sometimes you look as if you eat too much, you look so fat and other times you look so skinny you look as if you hadn't eat enough." I read in a story once where actresses had shampaines with their meals. I never tasted any, but I guess I will soon, as I'm going to be an actress myself and may said I could."

Oh, that our delusions of tomorrow should be our illusions of today! It is as well, however, for rain-bows in a storm-blown sky. Hundreds of ambitious young girls write in me of their dreams to dawn when they, too, will be heralded as actresses, either of the screen or the screen or perhaps of both.

"My ambition is to become an actress," another girl writes. "No I can live in a lovely apartment, with gold colored wall paper and fresh open air house dainties served on magnificent china."

It is not to myself if this young girl thought of the hothouse dainties because she had lived all her life on corn and oat groats to taste the healthy, crude products of the soil. We moving picture actresses who today after day are walking from one location to another would almost be willing to give half our salaries for a month of these very meals at the farm of which she writes. How many times I have seen the automobile, hungry and cold and tired, waiting for them to bring my luncheon, which was a hot and succulent sandwich, glass of cold milk and a piece of soap pie!

Sometimes I close my eyes and try to imagine that I am out on a great, beautiful farm, waiting for the dinner bell to ring out its promise of steaming dishes and mugs of foamy milk.

But it is always what Miss O'Brien has that looks the most enticing. She is a girl I would like to sit down to her place at the table on the farm, she writes to me that she would "forever" for healthy food of the kind that she writes of.

A MOTLEY SCENE.
When visitors come to the studio for the first time, I always invite them to have lunch at the dining room. The word "eat" leads quite a dignified tone to what is really a long and tedious wait for the dinner bell to ring out its promise of steaming dishes and mugs of foamy milk.

we are to dine upon that I hold out as the attraction (we dine happily, but seldom well), but it is the introduction of a stranger into an imaginary painted world, such as H. G. Wells might write of.

Sometimes there are over a hundred of the actors and actresses sitting around the counter in costumes representing every country, every age and every style—a cowboy in shining coffee and doughnuts with a convict on one side and with Duchess Vere de Vere on the other, who wears the famous Vere de Vere pink pearls!

A tall, thin man, who looks as if he might be Don Quixote, is eating shrewdly without blushing and drinking a cup of hot water, while he reads a large, dignified book entitled "Crimes and Follies." As we pass we notice three soldiers who are carrying huge platters of pork and beans. One wears a German uniform, the other a French and the third an English. The two soldiers in the front of the days of the Spanish Inquisition, with three halberdiers and Marie Antoinette!

The Duke of Wellington says for Napoleon's luncheon, while a Japanese soldier and Russian peasant girl, the girl wearing an engagement ring, the Japanese soldier has just given her, go arm in arm out of the gate.

Which all goes to prove that 'world peace always prevails at the call of the dinner bell!
